THE WAY TO BOHEMIA

TIME was when Bohemianism was synonymous with soiled linen and unkempt locks. But those days of the ragged Bohemia have happily passed away, and that land of unconventional life—which had finally grown conventional in its characteristics—has now become “a sphere of influence” of Modern Society! In a word, it is now respectable. There are those who firmly believe it has been wiped off the social map. The dress suit and the proprieties are thought by some to be incompatible with its existence. But it is not so; the new Bohemia is surely no less delightful than the old. The way to it is through the doors of almost any of the well-known literary and art clubs of London. Its inhabitants are our artists, our men of letters, our musicians, and, above all, our actors.

In the present volume we are under the guidance of Mr. Punch, himself the very flower of London's Bohemia, into this land of light-hearted laughter and the free-and-easy manner of living. We shall follow him chiefly through the haunts of the knights of the pen and pencil, as we have another engagement to spend some agreeable hours with him in the theatrical and musical world. It should be noted, however, that we shall not be limited to what has been called "Upper Bohemia," but that we shall, thanks to his vast experience, be able to peep both at the old and new.

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

Easily first amongst the artists who have depicted the humours of Bohemia is Phil May. Keene and Du Maurier run him close, but their Bohemia is on the whole more artistic, less breezily, raggedly, hungrily unconventional than his. It is a subject that has inspired him with some of his best jokes, and some of his finest drawings.

What is done cannot be underdone.

You can't make a pair of shoes out of a pig's tail.

Dinner hour is worth every other, except bedtime.

No hairdresser puts grease into a wise man's head.

WHAT OUR ARTIST HAS TO PUT UP WITH.—Fond Mother. "I do wish you would look over some of my little boy's sketches, and give me your candid opinion on them. They strike me as perfectly marvellous for one so young. The other day he drew a horse and cart, and, I can assure you, you could scarcely tell the difference!"

EDITORS

[“Editors, behind their officialism, are human just like other folks, for they think and they work, they laugh and they play, they marry—just as others do. The best of them are brimful of human nature, sympathetic and kindly, and full of the zest of life and its merry ways.”—Round About.]

To look at, the ordinary editor is so like a human being that it takes an expert to tell the difference.

When quite young they make excellent pets, but for some strange reason people never confess that they have editors in the house.

Marriage is not uncommon among editors, and monogamy is the rule rather than the exception.

The chief hobby of an editor is the collection of stamped addressed envelopes, which are sent to him in large numbers. No one knows why he should want so many of these, but we believe he is under the impression that by collecting a million of them he will be able to get a child into some hospital.

Of course in these enlightened days it is illegal to shoot editors, while to destroy their young is tantamount to murder.

A DIVISION OF LABOUR

[“Journalism. — Gentleman (barrister) offers furnished bedroom in comfortable, cheerful chambers in Temple in return for equivalent journalistic assistance, &c.”—Times.]

The “equivalent” is rather a nice point. Mr. Punch suggests for other gentlemen barristers the following table of equivalence:—

1 furnished bedroom . . .	=	{ 1 introduction (by letter) to sub-editor of daily paper.
1 furnished bedroom with use of bath . . .	} =	{ 1 introduction (personal) to sub-editor.
1 bed-sitting-room . . .	=	{ 1 introduction and interview (five minutes guaranteed) with editor.
2 furnished rooms . . .	} =	{ 1 lunch (cold) with Dr. Robertson Nicoll.
2 furnished rooms, with use of bath . . .	} =	{ 1 lunch (hot) with Dr. Nicoll and Claudius Clear.
1 furnished flat, with all modern conveniences, electric light, trams to the corner, &c.)	} =	{ 1 bridge night with Lord Northcliffe, Sir George Newnes, and Mr. C. A. Pearson.

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

STALE NEWS FRESHLY TOLD.—A physician cannot obtain recovery of his fees, although he may cause the recovery of his patient.

A FEW GOLDEN RULES TRANSMUTED INTO BRASS

THE GOLDEN RULE.

1. Never put off till to-morrow what you can do to-day.
2. Never trouble another for a trifle which you can do yourself.
3. Never spend your money before you have it, if you would make the most of your means.
4. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly.

THE BRAZEN RULE.

1. Put off till to-morrow the dun who won't be done to-day.
2. When another would trouble you for a trifle, never trouble yourself.
3. Spend your money before you have it; and when you have it, spend it again, for by so doing you enjoy your means twice, instead of only once.
4. You have only to do a creditor willingly, and he will never be troublesome.

A LITERARY PURSUIT.—Chasing a newspaper

A LETTER TO A YOUNG
PUBLISHER

SINCE, my dear Jones, you are good enough to ask for my advice, need I say that your success in business will depend chiefly upon judicious advertisement? You are bringing out, I understand, a thrilling story of domestic life, entitled "Maria's Marriage." Already, I am glad to learn, you have caused a paragraph to appear in the literary journals contradicting "the widespread report that Mr. Kipling and the German Emperor have collaborated in the production of this novel, the appearance of which is awaited with such extraordinary interest." And you have induced a number of papers to give prominence to the fact that Mr. Penwiper dines daily off curry and clotted cream. So far, so good. Your next step will be to send out review-copies, together with ready-made laudatory criticisms; in order, as you will explain, to save the hardworked reviewers trouble. But, you will say, supposing this ingenious device to fail? Supposing "Maria's Marriage" to be universally "slated"? Well, even then you need not despair. With a little practice, you will learn the art of manufacturing an attractive advertisement column from the most unpromising material. Let me give you a brief example of the method:—

I.—THE RAW MATERIAL.

"Mr. Penwiper's latest production, 'Maria's Marriage,' scarcely calls for serious notice. It seems hard to believe that even the most tolerant reader will contrive to study with attention a work of which every page contains glaring errors of taste. Humour, smartness, and interest are all conspicuously wanting."—The Thunderer.

"This book is undeniably third-rate—dull, badly-written, incoherent; in fine, a dismal failure."—The Wigwam.

"If 'Maria's Marriage' has any real merit, it is as an object-lesson to aspiring authors. Here, we would say to them, is a striking example of the way in which romance should not be written. Set yourself to produce a work exactly its opposite in every particular, and the chances are that you will produce, if not a masterpiece, at least, a tale free from the most glaring faults. For the terrible warning thus afforded by his volume to budding writers, Mr. Penwiper deserves to be heartily thanked.”—Daily Telephone.

“‘Maria’s Marriage’ is another book that we have received in the course of the month.”—The Parachute.

“Maria’s Marriage!” “Maria’s Marriage!”

Gigantic Success—The Talk of London.

The 29th edition will be issued this week if the sale of twenty-eight previous ones makes this necessary. Each edition is strictly limited!

“Maria’s Marriage!”

The voice of the Press is simply unanimous. Read the following extracts—taken almost at random from the reviews of leading papers.

“Mr. Penwiper’s latest production . . . calls for serious notice . . . the reader will . . . study with attention a work of which every page contains taste, humour, smartness and interest!”—The Thunderer.

PROPORTIONS.—Buyer. "In future, as my collection increases, and my wall-space is limited, and price no object, perhaps you would let me have a little more 'picture,' and a little less 'mount'!"

Mr. Punch in Bohemia.

“Undeniably . . . fine!”—The Wigwam.

“Has . . . real merit . . . an object lesson . . . a striking example of the way in which romance . . . should be written. A masterpiece . . . free from faults. Mr. Penwiper deserves to be heartily thanked ”—Daily Telephone.

“The book . . . of the month!”—The Parachute, &c., &c.

“Maria’s Marriage!” A veritable triumph! Order it from your bookseller to-day!

That, my dear Jones, is how the trick is done. I hope to give you some further hints on a future occasion.

LITERARY NOTES

A WELL-KNOWN diner-out has, we learn, collected his reminiscences, and would be glad to hear from some obliging gentleman or gentlemen who would "earnestly request" him to publish them.

We should add that no names would be mentioned, the preface merely opening as follows :—

"Although these stray gleanings of past years are of but ephemeral value, and though they were collected with no thought of publication, the writer at the earnest request of a friend" (or "many friends," if more than one) "has reluctantly consented to give his scattered reminiscences to the world."

The following volumes in "The Biter Bit" series are announced as shortly to appear :—

"The Fighter Fit ; or practical hints on pugilistic training."

"The Lighter Lit : a treatise on the illumination of Thames barges."

"The Slighter Slit : or a new and economical method of cutting out."

"The Tigger Tit : studies in the comparative inebriation of birds."

POETRY DEPARTMENT.

WE employ experienced poets for the supply of garden verses, war songs, &c., and undertake to fill any order within twenty-four hours of its reaching us. Our Mr. Rhymeesei will be glad to wait upon parties requiring verse of any description, and, if the matter is at all urgent, to execute the order on the spot.

DRAMA DEPARTMENT.

Actor-managers before going elsewhere should give us a call. Our plays draw wherever they are presented, even if it is only bricks.

Testimonial.—A manager writes: "The play you kindly supplied, The Blue Bloodhound of Bletchley, BIOGRAPHY.

Any gentleman wishing to have a biography of himself produced in anticipation of his decease should communicate with us.

The work would, of course, be published with a note to the effect that the writing had been a labour of love; that moreover the subject with his usual modesty had been averse from the idea of a biography.

Testimonial.—Sir Sunny Jameson writes: "The Life gives great satisfaction. No reference made, however, to my munificent gift of £50 to the Referees' Hospital. THE GRAMMAR OF ART.—“Art,” spell it with the place of honour; then “Thou Art!” so apostrophised, comes next.

TWO OLD MASTERS OF ARTS

ARTIST'S VADE MECUM

Question. Has the anxious parent been to see his child's portrait?

Answer. He has seen it.

Q. Did he approve of it?

A. He will like it better when I have made some slight alterations.

Q. What are they?

A. He would like the attitude of the figure altered, the position of the arms changed, the face turned the other way, the hair and eyes made a different colour, and the expression of the mouth improved.

Q. Did he make any other suggestions?

A. Yes; he wishes to have the child's favourite pony and Newfoundland dog put in, with an indication of the ancestral home in the back-ground.

Q. Is he willing to pay anything extra for these additions?

A. He does not consider it necessary.

Q. Are you well on with your Academy picture?

A. No; but I began the charcoal sketch yesterday.

SONGS AND THEIR SINGERS

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

Q. Have you secured the handsome model?

A. No; the handsome model has been permanently engaged by the eminent R.A.

Q. Under these circumstances, do you still expect to get finished in time?

A. Yes; I have been at this stage in February for as many years as I can remember, and have generally managed to worry through somehow.

WHENEVER the "Reduced Prizefighters" take a benefit at a theatre, the play should be The Miller and his Men.

Artist (who has recommended model to a friend). "Have you been to sit to Mr. Jones yet?"

Art Student (engaging rooms). "What is that?" Landlady. "That is a picture of our church done in wool by my daughter, sir. She's subject to art, too."

THE SUB-EDITOR'S AUNT

"I ALWAYS buy your paper my dear Horace," said the old lady, "although there is much in it I cannot approve of. But there is one thing that puzzles me extremely."

"Yes, aunt?" said the Sub-Editor meekly, as he sipped his tea.

"Why, I notice that the contents bill invariably has one word calculated to stimulate the morbid curiosity of the reader. An adjective."

"Circulation depends upon adjectives," said the Sub-Editor.

"I don't think I object to them," the old lady replied; "but what I want you to tell me is how you choose them. How do you decide whether an occurrence is 'remarkable' or 'extraordinary,' 'astounding' or 'exciting,' 'thrilling' or 'alarming,' 'sensational' or merely 'strange,' 'startling' or 'unique'? What tells you which word to use?"

"Well, aunt, we have a system to indicate the adjective to a nicety; but——"

"My dear Horace, I will never breathe a word.

You should know that. No one holds the secrets of the press more sacred than I."

The Sub-Editor settled himself more comfortably in his chair.

"You see, aunt, the great thing in an evening paper is human interest. What we want to get is news to hit the man-in-the-street. Everything that we do is done for the man-in-the-street. And therefore we keep safely locked up in a little room a tame man of this description. He may not be much to look at, but his sympathies are right, unerringly right. He sits there from nine till six, and has things to eat now and then. We call him the Thrillometer."

"How wonderful! How proud you should be Horace, to be a part of this mighty mechanism, the press."

"I am, aunt. Well, the duties of the Thrillometer are very simple. Directly a piece of news comes in, it is the place of one of the Sub-Editors to hurry to the Thrillometer's room and read it to him. I have to do this."

"Poor boy. You are sadly overworked, I fear."

OUR ARTIST

“If you please, sir, here’s the printer’s boy called again!”

“Oh, bother! Say I’m busy.”

Long study has told me exactly what degree of interest is excited within him by the announcement. I know instantly whether his expression means ‘phenomenal’ or only ‘remarkable,’ whether ‘distressing’ or only ‘sad,’ whether——”

“Is there so much difference between ‘distressing’ and ‘sad,’ Horace?”

“Oh, yes, aunt. A suicide in Half Moon Street

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

is 'distressing' ; in the City Road it is only 'sad.' Again, a raid on a club in Whitechapel is of no account ; but a raid on a West-End club is worth three lines of large type in the bill, above Fry's innings."

"Do you mean a club in Soho when you say West-End?"

"Yes, aunt, as a rule."

"But why do you call that the West-End?"

"That was the Thrillometer's doing, aunt. He fell asleep over a club raid, and a very good one too, when I said it was in Soho ; but when I told him of the next—also in Soho, chiefly Italian waiters—and said it was in the West-End, his eyes nearly came out of his head. So you see how useful the Thrillometer can be.”

“Most ingenious, Horace. Was this your idea?”

“Yes, aunt.”

“Clever boy. And have the other papers adopted it?”

“Yes, aunt. All of them.”

“Then you are growing rich, Horace?”

“No, no, aunt, not at all. Unfortunately I lack the business instinct. Other people grow rich on my ideas. In fact, so far from being rich, I was going to venture to ask you——”

“Tell me more about the Thrillometer,” said the old lady briskly.

HOW TO BE AN AUTHOR

MR. PUNCH, having read the latest book on the way to write for the press, feels that there is at least one important subject not properly explained therein : to wit, the covering letter. He therefore proceeds to supplement this and similar books. . . . It is, however, when your story is written that the difficulties begin. Having selected a suitable editor, you send him your contribution accompanied by a covering letter. The writing of this letter is the most important part of the whole business. One story, after all, is very much like another (in your case, probably, exactly like another), but you can at least in your covering letter show that you are a person of originality.

Your letter must be one of three kinds : pleading, peremptory, or corruptive. I proceed to give examples of each.

I.—THE PLEADING LETTER.

199, Berkeley Square, W.

DEAR MR. EDITOR,—I have a wife and seven starving children ; can you possibly help us by accepting this little story of only 18,000 (eighteen thousand) words? Not only would you be doing a work of charity to one who has suffered much, but you would also, I venture to say, be conferring a real benefit upon English literature—as I have already received the thanks of no fewer than thirty-three editors for having allowed them to peruse this manuscript.

Yours humbly,

THE MCHARDY.

P.S.—My youngest boy, aged three, pointed to his little sister's Gazeka toy last night and cried "De editor!" These are literally the first words that have passed his lips for three days. Can you stand by and see the children starve?

II.—THE PEREMPTORY LETTER.

III.—THE CORRUPTIVE LETTER.

Middlesex House, Park Lane, W.

DEAR MR. SMITH,—Can you come and dine with us quite in a friendly way on Thursday at eight? I want to introduce you to the Princess of Holdwig-Schlosstein and Mr. Alfred Austin, who are so eager to meet you. Do you know I am really a little frightened at the thought of meeting such a famous editor? Isn't it silly of me?

Yours very sincerely,

EMMA MIDDLESEX.

P.S.—I wonder if you could find room in your splendid little paper for a silly story I am sending you. It would be such a surprise for the Duke's birthday (on Monday).—E. M.

Before concluding the question of the covering letter I must mention the sad case of my friend Hallbut. Hallbut had a series of lithographed letters of all kinds, one of which he would enclose with every story he sent out. On a certain occasion he wrote a problem story of the most advanced kind; what, in fact, the reviewers call a "strong" story. In sending this to the editor of a famous

AN ARTISTIC EPISODE

["Incapacity for work has come to be accepted as the hall-mark of genius. . . . The collector wants only the thing that is rare, and therefore the artist must make his work as rare as he can."—Daily Chronicle.]

JOSEPHINE found me stretched full length in a hammock in the garden.

"Why aren't you at work?" she asked; "not feeling seedy, I hope?"

"Never better," said I. "But I've been making myself too cheap."

"We couldn't possibly help going to the Joneses last night, dear."

"Tush," said I. "I mean there is too much of me."

"I don't quite understand," she said; "but there certainly will be if you spend your mornings lolling in that hammock."

The distortive wantonness of this remark left me cold.

"I have made up my mind," I continued, quite seriously, "to do no more work for a considerable time."

"But, my dear boy, just think——"

SONGS AND THEIR SINGERS

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

"I'm going to make myself scarce," I insisted.

"Geoffrey!" she exclaimed, "I knew you weren't well!"

I released myself.

"Josephine," I said solemnly, "those estimable persons who collect my pictures will think nothing of them if they become too common."

"How do you know there are such persons?" she queried.

"I must decline to answer that question," I replied; "but if there are none it is because my work is not yet sufficiently rare and precious. I propose to work no more—say, for six or seven years. By that time my reputation will be made, and there will be the fiercest competition for the smallest canvas I condescend to sign."

She kissed me.

"I came out for the housekeeping-money," she remarked simply.

I went into the house to fetch the required sum, and, by some means I cannot explain, got to work again upon the latest potboiler.

SUCH IS FAME!—Duchess (with every wish to encourage conversation, to gentleman just introduced). "Your name is very familiar to me indeed for the last ten years." Minor Poet (flattered): "Indeed, Duchess! And may I ask what it was that first attracted you?" Duchess. "Well, I was staying with Lady Waldershaw, and she had a most indifferent cook, and whenever we found fault with any dish she always quoted you, and said that you liked it so much!"

DOMESTIC BLISS.—Wife of your Bussum. “Oh! I don’t want to interrupt you, dear. I only want some money for baby’s socks—and to know whether you will have the mutton cold or hashed.”

IN A MINOR KEY.—Hearty Friend (meeting Operatic Composer). Hallo, old man, how are you? Haven’t seen you for an age! What’s your latest composition?

Impecunious Musician (gloomily). With my creditors. [Exeunt severally.

TO BE SUNG AT CONCERT PITCH.—“The Tar’s Farewell.”

SAFE.—Guest (after a jolly evening). "Goo night, oi tellah—I'll leave my boosh oushide 'door——" Bohemian Host: "Au' right, m' boy—(hic)—noborry 'll toussh 'em—goo' light!!" [Exeunt,

CONSOLATIONS FOR THE UNHUNG

Now that the painful month of suspense in Studioland is at an end, it behoves us to apply our most soothing embrocation to the wounded feelings of geniuses whose works have boomeranged their way back from Burlington House. Let them remember :

That very few people really look at the pictures in the Academy—they only go to meet their friends, or to say they have been there.

That those who do examine the works of art are wont to disparage the same by way of showing their superior smartness.

That one picture has no chance of recognition with fourteen hundred others shouting at it.

That all the best pavement-artists now give "one-man" shows. They can thus select their own "pitch," and are never ruthlessly skied.

That photography in colours is coming, and then the R.A. will have to go.

That Rembrandt, Holbein, Rubens and Vandyck were never hung at the summer exhibition.

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

That Botticelli, Correggio and Titian managed to rub along without that privilege.

That the ten-guinea frame that was bought (or owed for) this spring will do splendidly next year for another masterpiece.

That the painter must have specimens of his best work to decorate the somewhat bare walls of his studio.

That the best test of a picture is being able to live with it—or live it down—so why send it away from its most lenient critic?

That probably the chef-d'œuvre sent in was shown to the hanging committee up-side down.

That, supposing they saw it properly, they were afraid that its success would put the Academy to the expense of having a railing placed in front.

And finally, we would remind the rejected one that, after all, his bantling has been exhibited in the R.A.—to the president and his colleagues engaged in the work of selection. Somebody at least looked at it for quite three seconds.

ART NOTE.—The early Italian style.—An organ-grinder at five o'clock in the morning.

OUR FLAT.—Extract from Lady's Correspondence. "—In fact, our reception was a complete success. We had some excellent musicians. I daresay you will wonder where we put them, with such a crowd of people; but we managed capitally!"

SHOW SUNDAY.—Vandyke Browne. "Peace, my dear lady, peace and refinement, those are the two essentials in an artist's surroundings." [Enter Master and Miss Browne. Tableau!]

VARNISHING DAY AMENITIES.—Little Smudge. "Of course, I know perfectly well my style isn't quite developed yet, but I feel I am, if I might so express it, in a transition stage, don't you know." Brother Brush ("skied" this year). "Ah! I see, going from bad to worse!"

THE MIGHTY PEN

[“With this little instrument that rests so lightly in the hand, whole nations can be moved. . . . When it is poised between thumb and finger, it becomes a living thing—it moves with the pulsations of the living heart and thinking brain, and writes down, almost unconsciously, the thoughts that live—the words that burn. . . . It would be difficult to find a single newspaper or magazine to which we could turn for a lesson in pure and elegant English.”—Miss Corelli in “Free Opinions Freely Expressed.”]

O MAGIC pen, what wonders lie
 Within your little length !
Though small and paltry to the eye
 You boast a giant’s strength.
Between my finger and my thumb
A living creature you become,
And to the listening world you give
“The words that burn—the thoughts that live.”

Oft, when the sacred fire glows hot,
 Your wizard power is proved :
You write till lunch, and nations not Infrequently are moved ;
’Twi’x lunch and tea perhaps you damn
For good and all, some social sham,
And by the time I pause to sup—
Behold Carnegie crumpled up !

COMPLIMENTS ONE MIGHT IMPROVE ON.—Mrs. Mudge. "I do admire the women you draw, Mr. Penink. They're so beautiful and so refined! Tell me, who is your model?"
[Mrs. Mudge rises in Mrs. Penink's opinion.] Penink. "Oh, my wife always sits for me!"
Mrs. Mudge (with great surprise). "You don't say so! Well, I think you're one of the cleverest men I know!"
[Mrs. Penink's opinion of Mrs. Mudge falls below zero.]

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

Through your unconscious eyes I see
 Strange beauty, little pen !
You make life exquisite to me,
 If not to other men.
You fill me with an inward joy
No outward trouble can destroy,
Not even when I struggle through
Some foolish ignorant review ;
Nor when the press bad grammar scrawls
 In wild uncultured haste,
And which intolerably galls
 One's literary taste.
What are the editors about,
Whom one would think would edit out
The shocking English and the style
Which every page and line defile ?
There is, alas ! no magazine,
 No paper that one knows
To which a man could turn for clean
 And graceful English prose ;
Not even, O my pen, though you
Yourself may write for one or two,
And lend to them a style, a tone,
A grammar that is all your own.
I see the shadows of decay
 On all sides darkly loom ;
Massage and manicure hold sway,
 Cosmetics fairly boom ;
Old dowagers and budding maids
Alike affect complexion-aids,
While middle age with anxious care
Dyes to restore its dwindling hair.

"THE GREEN-EYED MONSIEUR."—George (Itinerant Punch-and-Judy Showman).
"I say, Bill, she do draw!" Bill (his partner, with drum and box of puppets).
"H'm—it's more than we can!"

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

The time is out of joint, but still
I am not hopeless quite
So long as you exist, my quill,
Once more to set it right.
Woman will cease from rouge, I think,
Man pour his hair-wash down the sink,
If you will yet consent to give
"The words that burn—the thoughts that live."

A HINT FOR THE PUBLISHERS.

As the publishing season will soon be in full play—
—which means that there will be plenty of work—we suggest the following as titles of books, to succeed the publication of "People I have Met," by an American:—

People I have taken into Custody, by a Policeman.

People that have Met me Half-way, by an Insolvent.

People I have Splashed, by a Scavenger.

People I have Done, by a Jew Bill-discounter.

People I have Abused, by a 'Bus Conductor.

People I have Run Over, by a Butcher's Boy.

People I have Run Against, by a Sweep.

A ROARING TRADE.—Keeping a menagerie.

"SELECTION."—Brown (as he was leaving our Art Conversazione, after a rattling scramble in the cloak-room). "Confound it! 'Got my own hat, after all!"

Eccentric Old Gent (whose pet aversion is a dirty child). "Go away, you dirty girl, and wash your face!"

Indignant Youngster. "You go 'ome, you dirty old man, and do yer 'air!"

MUSICAL FACT.—People are apt to complain of the vile tunes that are played about the streets by grinding organs, and yet they may all be said to be the music of Handle.

SONGS AND THEIR SINGERS

Photographer. "I think this is an excellent portrait of your wife."

Mr. Smallweed. "I don't know—sort of repose about the mouth that somehow doesn't seem right."

THE GREAT PRIZE FIGHT.—Johnnie (who finds that his box, £20, has been appropriated by "the Fancy"). "I beg your pardon, but this is my box!" Bill Bashford. "Oh, is it? Well, why don't you tike it?"

WITHOUT PREJUDICE.—Ugly Man (who thinks he's a privileged wag, to artist). "Now, Mr. Daubigny, draw me." Artist (who doesn't like being called Daubigny, and whose real name is Smith). "Certainly. But you won't be offended if it's like you. Eh?"

Tom M^r / 99.

Scrimble. "So sorry I've none of my work to show you. Fact is, I've just sent all my pictures to the Academy."

Mrs. Macmillions. "What a pity! I did so much want to see them. How soon do you expect them back?"

THE YOUNG NOVELIST'S GUIDE TO MEDICINE

CHLOROFORM. Invaluable to writers of sensational stories. Every high-class fictionary criminal carries a bottle in his pocket. A few drops, spread on a handkerchief and waved within a yard of the hero's nose, will produce a state of complete unconsciousness lasting for several hours, within which time his pockets may be searched at leisure. This property of chloroform, familiar to every expert novelist, seems to have escaped the notice of the medical profession.

CONSUMPTION. The regulation illness for use in tales of mawkish pathos. Very popular some years ago, when the heroine made farewell speeches in blank verse, and died to slow music. Fortunately, however, the public has lost its fondness for work of this sort. Consumption at its last stage is easily curable (in novels) by the reappearance of a hero supposed to be dead. Two pages later the heroine will gain strength in a way which her doctors—not unnaturally — will describe as “perfectly

BREAKING IT GENTLY.—His Cousins. "We sent off the wire to stop your model coming. But you had put one word too many—so we struck it out." Real Artist. "Oh, indeed. What word did you strike out?" His Cousins. "You had written 'he wasn't to come, as you had only just discovered you couldn't paint to-day.' So we crossed out 'to-day.'" marvellous." And in the next chapter the marriage-bells will ring.

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

DOCTOR. Always include a doctor among your characters. He is quite easy to manage, and invariably will belong to one of these three types: (a) The eminent specialist. Tall, imperturbable, urbane. Only comes incidentally into the story. (b) Young, bustling, energetic. Not much practice, and plenty of time to look after other people's affairs. Hard-headed and practical. Often the hero's college friend. Should be given a pretty girl to marry in the last chapter. (c) The old family doctor. Benevolent, genial, wise. Wears gold-rimmed spectacles, which he has to take off and wipe at the pathetic parts of the book.

FEVER. A nice, useful term for fictionary illnesses. It is best to avoid mention of specific symptoms, beyond that of "a burning brow," though, if there are any family secrets which need

THE STATE OF THE MARKET.—Artist (to customer, who has come to buy on behalf of a large furnishing firm in Tottenham Court Road): "How would this suit you? 'Summer'!" Customer: "H'm—'Summer.' Well, sir, the fact is we find there's very little demand for green goods just now. If you had a line of autumn tints now—that's the article we find most sale for among our customers!"

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

to be revealed, delirium is sure to supervene at a later stage. Arthur Pendennis, for instance, had fictional "fever," and baffled doctors have endeavoured ever since to find out what really was the matter with him. "Brain-fever," again, is unknown to the medical faculty, but you may safely afflict your intellectual hero with it. The treatment of fictionary fever is quite simple, consisting solely of frequent doses of grapes and cooling drinks. These will be brought to the sufferer by the heroine, and these simple remedies administered in this way have never been known to fail.

FRACTURE. After one of your characters has come a cropper in the hunting-field he will be taken on a hurdle to the nearest house: usually, by a strange coincidence, the heroine's home. And

Our Amateur Romeo (who has taken a cottage in the country, so as to be able to study without interruption). "Arise, fair sun, and kill the envious moon——" Owner of rubicund countenance (popping head over the hedge). "Beg pardon, zur. Be you a talkin' to Oi, zur?"

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

he will be said to have sustained "a compound fracture"—a vague description which will quite satisfy your readers.

GOUT. An invaluable disease to the humorist. Remember that heroes and heroines are entirely immune from it, but every rich old uncle is bound to suffer from it. The engagement of his niece to an impecunious young gentleman invariably coincides with a sharp attack of gout. The humour of it all is, perhaps, a little difficult to see, but it never fails to tickle the public.

HEART DISEASE. An excellent complaint for killing off a villain. If you wish to pave the way for it artistically, this is the recognised method: On page 100 he will falter in the middle of a sentence, grow pale, and press his hand sharply to his side. In a moment he will have recovered,

BITTERS AT THE CLUB

MacStodge (Pictor ignotus). "Who's that going out?"

O'Duffer (Pictor ignotissimus). "One Ernest Raphael Sopoly, who painted Lady Midas!"

MacStodge. "Oh, the artist!"

O'Duffer. "No. The Royal Academician!"

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

and will assure his anxious friends that it is nothing. But the reader knows better. He has met the same premonitory symptoms in scores of novels, and he will not be in the least surprised when, on the middle of page 250, the villain suddenly drops dead.

UNPOPULAR GAME AT THE ROYAL ACADEMY.
—"High-sky-high!"

A ROUGH WINE.—
Rude-sheimer.

NERVOUS.—Mrs. Malaprop was induced to go to a music hall the other evening. She never means to set foot in one again. The extortions some of the performers threw themselves into quite upset her.

MOTTO FOR A MODEL MUSIC-HALL ENTERTAINMENT.—"Everything in its 'turn' and nothing long."

LA VIE DE BOHÈME.—First Bohemian (to second ditto). "I can't for the life of me think why you wasted all that time haggling with that tailor chap, and beating him down, when you know, old chap, you won't be able to pay him at all." Second Bohemian. "Ah, that's it! I have a conscience. I want the poor chap to lose as little as possible!"

Little Guttersnipe (who is getting quite used to posing). "Will yer want me ter tike my bun down?"

Genial Doctor (after laughing heartily at a joke of his patient's). "Ha! ha! ha! There's not much the matter with you! Though I do believe that if you were on your death-bed you'd make a joke!"

Irrepressible Patient. "Why, of course I should. It would be my last chance!"

C. L. STONE -

She (to Raphael Greene, who paints gems for the R. A: that are never accepted). "I do hope you'll be hung this year. I'm sure you deserve to be!"

ART INTELLIGENCE

She (reads). "There are upwards of fifty English painters and sculptors now in Rome——"

He (British Philistine—served on a late celebrated jury!). "Ah! no wonder we couldn't get that scullery white-washed!"

Devoted little wife (to hubbie, who has been late at the club). "Now, dear, see, your breakfast is quite ready. A nice kipper, grilled chicken and mushrooms with bacon, poached eggs on toast—tea and coffee. Anything else you'd like, dearie?" Victim of last night (groans). "Yes—an appetite!" [Collapses.

AFTER FEEDING-TIME.—Showman of Travelling Menagerie. "Now, ladies and gentlemen, we come to the most interesting part of the 'ole exhibition! Seven different species of hanimals, in the same cage, dwellin' in 'armony. You could see them with the naked heye, only you have come too late. They are all now inside the lion!"

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

TO BILLIARD PLAYERS.—If you would obey the rules of billiards, always attend to the cannons of the game.

THE SUSPENSORY ACT.—Hanging the Academy exhibition.

IN THE BILLIARD ROOM.—Major Carambole. I never give any bribes to the club servants on principle.

Captain Hazard. Then I suppose the marker looks on the tip of your cue without interest.

IN A BAR, NEWMARKET.—Seedy Individual (to Knowing One). "D'yer want to buy a diamond pin cheap?" Knowing One. "'Ere, get out of this! What d'you take me for? A juggins?" S. I. "Give yer my word it's worth sixty quid if it's worth a penny. And you can 'ave it for a tenner." K. O. "Let's 'ave a look at it. Where is it?" S. I. "In that old gent's tie. Will yer 'ave it?"

SONGS AND THEIR SINGERS

"Yew harxed me woy hoi larved when larve should be
A thing hun-der-eamed hof larve twixt yew han me.
Yew moight hiq-tereat the sun tew cease tew she-oine
Has seek tew sty saw deep a larve has moine."

SHAKSPEARE ILLUSTRATED
"Oh, my prophetic soul! My uncle!"
Hamlet, Act I., Sc. 5.

A BROTHER ARTIST

["We have regularly attended the Academy now for many years, but never do we remember such a poor show of portraits; they cannot prove to be otherwise than the laughing-stock of tailors and their customers."—Tailor and Cutter.]

THE tailor leaned upon his goose,
And wiped away a tear :
"What portraits painting-men produce,"
He sobbed, "from year to year !
These fellows make their sitters smile
In suits that do not fit,
They're wrongly buttoned, and the style
Is not the thing a bit.

"Oh, artist I'm an artist too !
I bid you use restraint,
And only show your sitters, do,
In fitting coats of paint ;
In vain you crown those errant seams
With smiles that look ethereal,
For man may be the stuff of dreams—
But dreams are not material."

MEDICAL.—A sculptor friend, who has strabismus, consoles himself with the thought that he can always keep his profession in view through having a cast in his eye.

Frame-maker (to gifted amateur, who is ordering frames for a few prints and sketches). " Ah, I suppose you want something cheap an' ordinary for this?"
[N.B.—" This " was a cherished little sketch by our amateur himself.

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

NOT QUITE THE SAME.—Scene: Exhibition of Works of Art.

Dealer (to friend, indicating stout person closely examining a Vandyke). Do you know who that is? I so often see him about.

Friend. I know him. He's a collector.

Dealer (much interested). Indeed! What does he collect? Pictures?

Friend. No. Income tax.

_____ [Exeunt severally.

ART CLASS.—Inspector. What is a "landscape painter"?

Student. A painter of landscapes.

Inspector. Good. What is an "animal painter"?

Student. A painter of animals.

Inspector. Excellent. What is a "marine painter"?

Student. A painter of marines.

Inspector. Admirable! Go and tell it them. Call next class.

_____ [Exeunt students.

THE BEST "PUBLISHER'S CIRCULAR."—A round dining-table.

SOCIAL AGONIES.—Anxious Musician (in a whisper, to Mrs. Lyon Hunter's butler): "Where's my 'cello?" Butler (in stentorian tones, to the room). "Signor Weresmicello!"

PAUL MAY
79

Brown. "Pity Jones has lost—his figure!"
Robinson. "Not lost, but gone before!"

Enthusiastic Briton (to seedy American, who has been running down all our national monuments). "But even if our Houses of Parliament 'aren't in it,' as you say, with the Mascnic Temple of Chicago, surely, sir, you will admit the Thames Embarkment, for instance——"

Seedy American. "Waal, guess I don't think so durned much of your Thames Embankment, neither. It rained all the blarmed time the night I slep on it."

Mr. Punch in Bohemia

A PROFESSIONAL VIEW OF THINGS.—Old Paynter never neglects any opportunity for advancing art. Every evening he has the cloth drawn.

BEVERAGE FOR A MUSICIAN.—Thorough bass.

POETICAL LICENCE.—A music-hall's.

TURF REFORM.—Mowing your lawn.

A MONSTER MEETING.—A giant and a dwarf.

THE SOAKER'S PARADISE.—Dropmore.
